Abstract

The disclosure includes a computer-implemented method of processing a claim. The method includes receiving information corresponding to a context free grammar expression of a

5   provision governing claim adjudication, receiving information corresponding to a claim, and based on the received information, determining whether the at least one provision applies to the claim.

10